

Dear Linda,

Hello, Linda. How are you doing? One month has passed since you saw me off at the station.

London is much bigger than Yarmouth, and there are a lot of shops and buildings. I enjoy shopping every day, but the fish is not very good here in London.

I miss Yarmouth because our fish shop had plenty of cheap, fresh fish. I have not eaten fresh fish for many days. I'm dying to eat delicious fish.

On Wednesday, I'm going to go to a fish shop near my house. I hope I can find some great fish there.

Take care,
Claire

Hi, Claire

Thank you very much for your letter. We miss you very much. I am happy to hear that you can do a lot of shopping.

By the way, a couple of weeks ago, a Japanese sushi shop opened in our town. Our fish shop is very happy to sell a lot of fish to them.

My husband and I went there yesterday. It had clean rooms and nice tables and chairs. Of course the food was delicious.

I am sorry to hear that you cannot find fresh fish there. I hope the shop near your house has a lot of fresh fish.

Looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours,
Linda

Hello, Linda,

It's nice to hear from you. I envy you because you've got a nice Japanese sushi shop nearby.

I have a lot of complaint to make.

First of all, the fish shop was terrible. I went into the shop and found that the inside was messy, dirty, smelly and slippery.

I looked at all the fish there and none of them were fresh at all. I was really unhappy and said to the shopkeeper that the fish were not fresh. I was expecting him to say 'sorry', but he didn't.

To my surprise, he got angry. He said to me that it was my mistake. Then he said that the fish were there since last Friday. It was Wednesday at that time.

I needed few minutes to put myself together. I counted the date and then understood. The fish had been there for FIVE days!

I will never go to the shop again. It was just unbelievable!

Best regards,
Claire
