

Renato: I've opened a new Italian restaurant at the corner of Elizabeth Street.

Mr. Jenkins: Really? I'd like to go there. What kind of food do you serve?

Renato: Of course Italian. I am from Italy, you know?

Mr. Jenkins: Oh, that's right.

Renato: In Italy, people love to eat outdoors. So, we have some tables in the street. You should come and eat lunch in the fresh, open air.

Mr. Jenkins: That sounds like fun. OK, I'll be there tomorrow.

Mrs. Jenkins: How was the Italian lunch, darling?

Mr. Jenkins: It was terrible. It took 25 minutes to finish my soup.
