1. What did Tim ask Susan in the restaurant?
2. What did Susan say to Tim?
3. And what did he answer?
4. What did he say to the waiter?
5. And what did the waiter answer?

Susan: Wow, Can you understand fish's words?

Tim: Don't be silly. How can fish speak?

You waiter, don't make a fool of us.

Waiter: No, sir. I'm not making a fool of you. I do understand fish's words.

S: How interesting! Where did you learn fish's language?

W: Well, I used to be working in a big passenger ship, and travel around the world.

T: So?

W: When I was free, I used to talk to dolphins and flying fish because I was lonely. One day, I started to understand what they are saying.

S: That's superb. Do they speak different language in different countries?

W: No, they speak almost the same language, except some slight dialects.

T: Then you can't tell where the fish come from, can you?

W: Please don't be silly, mister. You can ask the fish where he or she comes from.

S: How marvelous.

T: Then what did the fish usually say?

W: They usually say, people are all liars, and don't trust rich people.

S: Is it really true?

T: I don't like this restaurant. Let's get out of here.

W: Sir, you are forgetting the tip.
